Regional Reports on Arms Exports

Strengthening Safety and Security through Regional Cooperation in South East Europe

In July 2009, SEESAC achieved a major political breakthrough by securing the political support for the development of a Regional Report on Arms Exports. Government representatives of Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Montenegro, and Serbia all agreed on the format and timetable for the publication of such a report. As a result, to date, SEESAC has published five (5) annual Regional Reports on Arms Exports, providing a breakdown of the arms export activities in participating countries during 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2011. Starting with the 4th report, Republic of Croatia began providing data on its exports as well.

In the world today, a joint regional publication of this kind can only be compared to that produced by the European Union.

The idea of producing a regional annual report on arms exports for South East Europe was first discussed at the EU outreach events in Serbia (December 2007) and Slovenia (May 2008). The proposed production of the annual regional report on arms exports was intended to help consolidate the gains in transparency that have already been made in the region, while also demonstrating an ability and willingness by the countries in the region to uphold the commitments associated with the Council Common Position 2008/944/CFSP defining common rules governing control of exports of military technology and equipment. Under the auspices of SEESAC a regional conference was held in Montenegro (July 2009) with the objective of agreeing on the format of the regional report.

Regional Reports on Arms Exports are presented to the public at a yearly press conference organized by SEESAC.

Regional Reports on Arms Exports for 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2011 and 2014 are available under SEESAC Publications.

Regional Reports can also be searched using the Regional Reports on Arms Exports Database (see below).

What is Cookie?

A cookie is a small piece of data sent from a website and stored in a user's web browser while a user is browsing a website. When the user browses the same website in the future, the data stored in the cookie can be retrieved by the website to notify the website of the user's previous activity

How do we use cookies?

A visit to a this page could generate the following types of cookie.

Strictly necessary cookies

These cookies are essential in order to enable you to move around the website and use its features, such as accessing secure areas of the website. Without these cookies services you have asked for, like shopping baskets or e-billing, cannot be provided.

2. Performance cookies

These cookies collect information about how visitors use a website, for instance which pages visitors go to most often, and if they get error messages from web pages. These cookies don't collect information that identifies a visitor. All information these cookies collect is aggregated and therefore anonymous. It is only used to improve how a website works.

3. Functionality cookies

These cookies allow the website to remember choices you make (such as your user name, language or the region you are in) and provide enhanced, more personal features. For instance, a website may be able to provide you with local weather reports or traffic news by storing in a cookie the region in which you are currently located. These cookies can also be used to remember changes you have made to text size, fonts and other parts of web pages that you can customise. They may also be used to provide services you have asked for such as watching a video or commenting on a blog. The information these cookies collect may be anonymised and they cannot track your browsing activity on other websites.

4. Targeting and advertising cookies

These cookies are used to deliver adverts more relevant to you and your interests They are also used to limit the number of times you see an advertisement as well as help measure the effectiveness of the advertising campaign. They are usually placed by advertising networks with the website operator's permission. They remember that you have visited a website and this information is shared with other organisations such as advertisers. Quite often targeting or advertising cookies will be linked to site functionality provided by the other organisation.
